Dear Nick,

Thank you for a great talk this past Sunday. It was fun to have you here. I know everyone really enjoyed your presentation and I was glad to see how eagerly they scooped up your books and CDs. You were definitely a hit! I am providing a recommendation for you to use in any marketing or promotional materials. I am happy to support you and how God is guiding you to serve humanity. You are a blessing to the world!

Dear New Thought Ministers,

I am pleased to lend my voice to those who sing the praises of Nick Arandes. When we first spoke, I was a bit reluctant to pursue any association—not because of him, but because I had not been pleased with previous guest speakers over the past two years. Nevertheless, I spoke with him at length, liked what he had to say, checked his website and took another leap of faith. And I am so glad that I did!

Nick's presentation was inspirational, powerful, relevant and funny. He was easy and enjoyable to listen to, holding our attention throughout his talk. His metaphysical grounding (nurtured at his home church—Agape) is, of course, completely in alignment with everything we teach at Shiloh Spiritual Center and his references to A Course In Miracles were much appreciated by those of us who are also students of the Course. More importantly, he tempered it in such a way to make it understandable and palatable for everyone. Nick was flexible with scheduling and responsive to all communications. He came well prepared, able to complete his own equipment set-up in a timely manner and he honored our time requirements with ease. The participants who stayed after to speak with him found him to be most gracious, charming and giving.

I believe that any group would enjoy and benefit from Nick's message. I honor his work, admire his energy and enthusiasm, and believe his message is the one we all need to hear and live by.

Sincerely,

Rev. Dr. Roxie Hart
